“ My name is Spike Wofford and I met Crystie Mills when she and Jinger were making YouTube videos of "The Thick Chick Show." I told her I was a fan and that she looked very pretty. As one thing led to another, we began this online, long-distance relationship.

Although the distance between us was difficult, I always made sure she got nice gifts on her birthday and Christmas and I loved sending cards to her. She always loved to receive them and her favorite ones were the postcards of my travels around the world.

I'll miss her sweet smile and personality. I know now she is in a better place. RIP Crystie, I love you.

“ I debated for awhile about posting anything on here.. I've posted all over your personal facebook.. so I didn't really see a reason to post here. But I LOVE you so very much and I miss you even more, so I had to! It's been really hard for me. You were my closest cousin and one of my best friends. You was the sister I never had.

You was and still are one of my favorite people! So many wonderful memories you and I shared. I wish you was here still... you would be amazed about everything going on and how the true colors of people really came out. You will forever be in my heart! So be waiting for meee! See you when I get there! Rest in peace! #bcf #icantliveeeiflaviniswithoutyou “ Still unbelievable! The memory of the love you had for me still lingers in my heart. I found it difficult to believe i can't see you again until the resurrection day when we shall meet and part no more in the kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Rest in peace my dear friend, i love you but God loves you more.

May the almighty God grant everyone of us and particularly your family the fortitude to bear the loss.

CHRISTIE, i love you my friend and will forever miss you.

Dammy.
