“ I know heaven has a new angel. Her name is Alice and she loved me. She helped raise me and my other 5 siblings. She introduced us to candy, dancing and Elvis movies at the drive in. When she worked in her teens, on pay day, she'd bring home candies and cokes and chips, things we never had before. Her priority was making sure her brothers and sisters had a good time. She took pride in doing things for us, treating us to new experiences, to do things that we'd never done before and especially, to learn about living outside those walls of that tiny house on Bailey Road. She was a great daughter, sister, friend, mother and grandmother. Most of all, she was a Christian and she put God first. She was ready to be with her heavenly father, rejoicing with all of her loved ones that had gone before her. I just know she danced her way in as she loved dancing. I hope my mom, dad, Louise, James, Ricky and Lois were there to greet her. A big family reunion, where everyone was in no pain, and dancing with her. I will miss my dear sister but it gives me great comfort knowing that you are where you want to be.

“ You and I were friends before first grade. I know what a wonderful person you are. Kind, considerate and loving. It's difficult to lose you so young, but I know you are in a place that is pain free. Heaven rejoiced when they saw you. I love you Alice, Rebecca Faulkner Paige

“ Diane, I didn't know your sister, but she was loved and cherished by her family and friends, as is obvious from all the messages on Facebook. I know you will always miss her. Her light will continue to shine in your heart and the hearts of those who love her. God bless you and your family. Donna Sanson
