“ Dear Maxwell Family,
I am so sorry for the lost of a husband, father, uncle, grandfather and friend. Losing someone so dear to you is something very difficult to adjust to. The bible has comforted many during these times. Such passages as Ps 55:22 show who we should lean on and confide in. The bible not only provides comfort but it also provides hope. Your love one has the hope of a resurrection as shown in Act 24:15. You have the hope of seeing him again here on a paradise earth. It is like he just went away for a while and will be back. The scriptures truly show the love and care that Jehovah God has for us. My condolences go out to the family and friends of Mr. Maxwell.##imported-begin##Junia Prosper##imported-end##

“ When someone dies in the family, the whole family changes to adjust. That family member had played an important role. As the family grieves for the one who has passed away, they must accept that nothing will ever be the same. Just keep moving on and know that he's in a better place watching down on all of you as your guardian angel.##imported-begin##Richard and Jaime Davis##imported-end##
