“ Betty used to make an excellent sweet potato casserole. My mom was Italian so food was a huge deal to her and she passed that down, of course so the casserole stood out to us! I asked Betty for the recipe and she promised to send it. A lot of people say they will do something and often forget. It's pretty common and we probably all do it occasionally. A few days later, I was so happy to receive a sweet note from Betty, which I still have, with the recipe neatly handwritten in it. I made it every time our family had Thanksgiving or Christmas and occasionally sometimes in between. It's still excellent and every single time I made it, I thought of Betty. I'm making it again soon and it, along with many other moments of kindness, will remind me of her. She was a sweet, sweet lady who could easily leave that impression within the first few minutes of meeting her. May God grant all those who loved and are grieving her passing, peace and strength in the difficult journey and sweet memories that offer comfort and blessings.
