“ Taking a break from Facebook is usually a good thing. In this instance I missed the funeral of my best friend for the last 20 years. Brady Rowe, I already feel the loss of you in my life. The times we spent on the phones for hours when we were teenagers and adults, being there for each other in the good times and the bad and always having each other's back. Hearing you call Kaleigh “Shorty” since she was little. Waiting to hear about how finishing flight school was and telling me about the calls you ran that day. I'm glad you are finally with your best friend John who lost his life for our country. I wish I could have come to visit one more time and I wish you had time when I kept trying to get you to come up here for a visit. I guess I'll be the one bringing cigarettes and beer to both your and John's graves now. I'll take that over now. I love you. Fly high. Be free.

“ I still can't find the right words. I'm still in shock. My heart is broken. Brady was such a wonderful person and I was honored to know him and have him in my life. He helped me through so much this past year. I could never repay him. He was full of love, life and laughter. On 2/15/22 he met my daughter and I at the trampoline park. I did not know it would be the last time I saw him or hugged his neck. Before I left that day he handed me a box and inside it was a cross charm, which got added to my necklace. Engraved in the cross was " Be Still" I wear it everyday. He talked to me almost everyday and called me almost every morning to check on me. We talked that Monday a couple times. Monday 2/21/22 I received a text from him at 8:37 pm that changed my life forever. I was asleep so I did not see it until the next morning 2/22/22. I wish I could have been able to respond and have one more conversation with him. Brady is deeply missed and impacted my life and so many others.

“ My heart is still broken and I still think this is all a dream. I had the pleasure of knowing Brady for the past three years. A wonderful relationship, regardless of how stressed we both were from things we could not control. He helped me get through a lot of things and there was no way I could have ever repaid him (though he told me countless times how I helped him). My last memory of him (2.18.22) will be our usual routine: watching a movie, eating chicken nuggets, and laughing about the absurdity of cartoons these days. My prayers go out to the family, his friends, and anyone else that had the pleasure of knowing him. Rest, my love, and watch over us all.

Such a wonderful picture of you two. I'm glad to have met you, but I absolutely hate the circumstances. 😞

“ My heart is breaking for the Rowe family. Brady was always so sweet & kind to everyone. Most of my childhood memories include him. Bus rides, playing in the neighborhood, school dances, college classes, ROTC events...the world will shine a little less with you gone. I hope your parents & brothers have comfort in knowing you are at peace now with God. Hope you & Jon are in heaven having a drink together!

“ I never met Brady but after watching the video if feel like one of the family sad and asking why did you have to take him so young. I worked with his dad Steve for many years and we bonded not only through work but through a strong faith in God. I know God will receive Brady with open arms and in some way comfort his parents and surrounding family for taking him too soon. Steve and Connie our hearts and prays go out to you and your family. Brady will be watching over and protecting you just like here did before. Some day he welcome you with a open arms and a big smile. But for now we can pray to him every night for faith and guidance. Brady God Bless

“ I had the pleasure of meeting and hanging out with Brady only a few times. I took it for granted that I might see him again someday. Although I didn't get to know him well, it is amazing how much he helped me when I was having a bad day. I didn't share with him that I was feeling really low, but he cheered me up without even trying or knowing how dark my day was. I think that was just his way. He was full of grace and charm and courage beyond measure. I only wish I could have returned the favor. May God rest his soul and bless and comfort his family during this very difficult time.

“ I keep coming back to this page to write a funny memory, but I just end up crying. I can not believe I won't see your face again dear Brady. I have been a bad cousin, not speaking to you more often, but you are so loved and always have been.

“ It is with great sorrow that I hear of Brady's passing. Although I have never met him, I feel close to him because I also have a son, born in 1983, who was in the service and is a firefighter. I have worked with Brady's dad Steve for over 30 years and am certain Brady is with the Lord now, with no pain or worries. The Rowe clan has helped me with their strong faith and I hope you can find peace and comfort in it.
