“ I met Brett 25 years ago when we both started working for Edy's. A few years later, Kathy came to work in Lawrenceville, and the rest was history. Two people who were truly made for each other! Through the years I've watched his love for Kathy grow, his sons grow to adulthood, changes in his job, and then a granddaughter that he couldn't stop talking about. His pride for Patrick just beamed on his face and he loved telling me funny stories about Patrick - he especially loved the one about the dogs chasing Patrick onto the roof of the patrol car. He laughed so hard he had to sit down. I still look up and expect to see him come by my office with his big grin and a big "what's happening". My hope is that Kathy and the rest of his family find peace in the coming days and months. I know I will never forget him.

“ I can also remember when I broke down in swainsboro this was when we had Nextel and you couldn't hardly get a signal unless you were on interstate way out there. I was there the whole day and evening before and after the mechanics got there and couldn't figure out what problem was I was hungry and tired and finally got dropped off to get a room in Dublin about 10. So Brett drove another truck down and got me early in morning and we went to truck and unloaded all the product onto the good truck and he help me get off all the rest of the stops.

“ I can remember when he was over the delivery agents and he rode with me and our route was in newnan peachtree area that day. We were at the back of an older Kroger about to unload truck and we were in a straight truck with the old lift gates that covered back door and we had the old norands handheld. So before we get to the incident we had just one other driver set their handheld on tire and forgot it was on there so when they drove off they crushed handheld. So our story was Brett had the handheld and sat it on the Lift gate and forgot it was on there and crushed it. We laughed about it and of course that ended our day and we said on way back that Pete was going to be mad at us since just a week before someone else crushed handheld. Brett has always been there for us when I was driver and other times as well. Great man and will be missed by many.
