“ Remember during these trying times to take care of yourselves and loved one left behind. No one can go back and change one day, events can't be undone, cling to one another and get through this together, there is not place for blame or guilt, your loved one made his own decision and only he knows why. Just remember his life had purpose even if remembering brings you tears and pain in the beginning, understanding and forgiveness especially for Carl will bring you all peace in the years to come. God bless you all and keep you, you are all in his hands now, he will not abandone you if you let him in.##imported-begin##Connie Knight-Beers##imported-end##
