“ On January 28, 2008 Dale Bailey went for a drive, about 2:48,
He was going down the road when he noticed way back, a bright white Chevy chromed up to the max.
She got a little closer and she started to pass,
The driver pulled next to him and rolled down his glass.
“Hey Bud, I seem to be lost.”
Dale pulled over to help the old man, you know a good cause.
“Fine ride,” Dale said, “One heck of a car.”
Dale had seen Chevys from near and from far,
But this one was special and boy did she gleam,
From bumper to bumper, one fine machine.
The men talked a while about the places they’d been,
Old car stories you know, men will be men
In mid sentence the man tossed Dale the keys,
“Take her for a spin, you’re a Chevy man like me.”
“Nah,” said Dale, “ I couldn’t do that.”
“She drives like a dream,” the old man said with a smile,
a wink, and a tip of his hat.
How could Dale resist an offer like that?
With keys in hand Dale grabbed hold of the wheel,
She was magnificent, made of the finest steel.
Her seats were made of top grain hides,
Burlled walnut covered her side to side.
Dale felt proud as he slid across the fine leather seats,
He started her up and felt her beat, beat, beat.
He gave her some gas and they started to go,
the old man in back and Dale at the wheel.
“Dale,” the old man asked “Son, How does she feel?”
Dale couldn’t remember when he felt so good - no worry,
no pain, no bad thoughts in his head.
He just felt Peace and Love and happy instead
Dale smiled at the old man and said, “Sir she’s great!”
The man in the back then motioned to Dale,
“Turn left up ahead,” and he did without fail.
Fifty white Chevys lined the road,
One for each year Dale had towed.

*They came to a gate all pearly and white,
and it opened up wide, a beautiful sight.
Dale then saw some friends he once knew,
Driving their Chevys and waving him through.
The old man touched Dales shoulder and here's what he said,
"Dale, Chevys are forever, this fact is true,
This is God's gift, This Chevy's for you."
"She'll last forever Son, now you will too."*
