“ *Danny. Brother u will be missed . We had great times serving our country stationed at bitburg germany ,times to this day i still recall with a smile on my face as i descibe the things we did with friends . I was deeply saddened when i got the call from your brother today and had to take a seat and reflect on the past. Im proud to have had you as a roomie and as a friend rest in peace brother. God has a plan and must have needed you to have taken you so early in life. My heartfelt condolences go out to your family who must be hurting and missing you

“ Danny, you have been my best friend for 22 years and I don't know what I'm going to do without you. I miss you so much and I hope you know how much I love you. I was looking forward to coming back to Atlanta in the fall and staying with you so we could keep each other company. It's hard not to talk to you every day. I wish I had told you how much it's meant to me to have you in my life. The hours we spent on the phone, talking about anything and everything, mostly complaining about the Nascar rules. I think most of us take for granted that our best friends and loved ones will be here every day. The void and ache in my heart is ever present. I hope you know how much I love you.##imported-begin##Cher Ward##imported-end##

“ The last time I saw Danny was at a Covenant Christian Academy football game in '10. He was fulfilling his role as a proud uncle watching his lil niece cheer, cutie Cougar Cub, Hannah. Our daughter was cheering too so I didn't get to introduce them but I introduced him to my hubby. We hugged and smiled at the reality of how small our world is to see a long-ago high school friend many years later at a football game. He was kind as always and looked great. We chatted a bit and concluded with looking forward to bumping into one another later in the season or the following year. Unfortunately, I didn't see him again. That last encounter is precious to me.

Danny posts on FB were always supportive and encouraging. I didn't see his posts frequently, so when I did I always read them. I will truly miss the occasional e-mail and FB posts.

Peace and God's great rewards are now yours, Danny. Rejoice with your Savior, the angels and your loved ones. Know you will not be forgotten by us, your friends.

“ Danny,

We pray the pain is gone. You were a good man with a big heart. You left us too soon, however evidently God has a different plan for you. We pray this note finds you resting in peace with no pain and actually visiting with previous lost ones such as your mom and dad, uncles and grand parents and of course some of the friends we have had to say good bye too soon as well.

Gonna miss ya Bouncer, Please Rest In Peace.....
