PS

We second the emotion of Mike and Barb Swenson. Well done guys, spot on! Yes, Debbie was one of a kind and very special. Over the years it was plain to see what an asset she was at Doctor's Inn. After meeting her family at the Memorial service it looks like she has some fine children and loving husband. May God give you peace and His grace, J.B. and family, at this difficult time.

We miss and love you, Debbie, and will meet again in the by and by. We'll have lots to catch up with.

May God bless,
Pat and Craig Skok

“ Your Wings were ready, but.....Our Hearts were not.

Today we grieve the loss of our dear friend, Debbie Stanford.

As patient's at the Doctor's Inn, we first met Debbie Stanford some 15-16 years ago.

Debbie was not your ordinary front desk person, answering phones, pulling out charts, or documenting payments, oh.....she did that as well. But.....Debbie WAS the front office!

She personalized all who came through those front doors. She welcomed everyone with a warm and inviting smile as she greeted you by name.

Debbie was bigger than life itself.

She had a bold and contagious personality that heightened your spirits before leaving the office. (and mind you, that was before you ever started medication for your illness)

Debbie's biggest attribute was her emphasis on..... putting others before herself.

We witnessed her time and time again, take on some of the most difficult patients, only to calm them down and put them at ease. It was important to Debbie, the patient understood the lobby, the staff and the doctors busy schedules.

She never missed a beat, if you were in the lobby, you had a personal friend looking out to help you feel better.

When Debbie was asked a question, if she didn't know the answer, she'd stop and say... "Give me a moment, and I'll check that out for you", that was SO Debbie. When you walked in for your appointment, SHE was your Mentor!

And today Our hearts are broken because we've lost a dear Friend and Confidant.

How do you thank someone for putting a smile on your face before seeing your doctor?

How do you thank someone for squeezing you in an appointment at the last minute?

How do you thank someone for understanding your feelings, and passing it on to the Doctors?

How do you thank someone for their compassion?

Well, a simple Thank you works just fine, but.....

The hard part is..... how do you say good bye to someone who dedicated her entire work space just for you?

Debbie is home and in the arms of her beloved Jesus.

Our Sincere and Deepest Condolences to JB, Bobby, all Debbie's family and loved ones, and all those at the Doctors Inn who too are grieving their loss.

Again, HER WINGS WERE READY, BUT OUR HEARTS WERE NOT.
