“ Mom

I lost my mother who was my best friend and my heart hurts. I know that you are in a better place... free from pain...with God...with other loved ones around you. I try to take comfort knowing this. Mom I keep reminding myself that I was able to tell you everyday how I felt and I have all the memories of which each day I soaked up like a sponge. I know you would tell me-- don't cry for me I am HOME and we will be together again. Thank you Mom, for all you taught me and the love that you gave me.

“ Dear Mother,

The day I received the news that your health was failing fast, I was not shocked. We all knew it was coming. I considered it a welcomed relief, your chance to finally rest in peace. I called my work and told them I will not be able to come in to work because, my mother is dying and i have to go to her in Georgia. As I hung up the phone, those last few words hit my heart like a sledgehammer. I cried uncontrollably and wailed. My wife tried her best to console me. All I wanted was to be alone and pulled the blankets over my head to hide from the reality that you are dying. Laying there sobbing, I thought about what could I do for you ? Money couldn't buy anymore time and I could not save you by pounding on your chest. I realized that our hearts once beat as one and I have your heart and compassion in mine. I shook off the sadness and headed out to help console our family. When I got to Dad he explained that you could no longer speak. He said he touched your hands and looked into your eyes and he could tell that, you understood your family was there and that I was coming. He then broke into tears and said you took your last breath and passed away. It was the first time I ever saw my father cry. Surprisingly I did not cry, I was not saddened. I was indeed extremely happy. It came to me instantly. Mother your wonderful life just had a fairy tale ending. Kings and Queens would be envious of your passing. The Love of your Life was standing there holding your hand and looking into your eyes. Assuring you that all was well and you are loved as you took your last breath.

“ My heart aches for the loss of my wonderful, caring, loving mother in law. She was the best Mother and Grandmother a family could have. Not a day will go by without thinking of you and the amazing legacy you have created in my family <3 I'm quite sure we will feel your spirit and enjoy your presence, as I know you will always be with us. Love you Mom <3

Bill Shaughnessy: Yesterday heaven gained another angel. We were so very fortunate to spend her 82nd birthday with her down in Atlanta. She is finally at peace and suffering no more.

I will miss our long talks at the kitchen table. I was always so fascinated at the stories about my dad and the family growing up. The stories about my grandfather being a Chicago police officer. I will always remember the summers up at their cottage in Bass Lake. It didn't matter what time we dropped by she always offered to cook us up a meal. Even the last time we were down there, she was very sick. She couldn't speak clearly and out of nowhere she goes " you boys hungry? Ill go make you something." I was fully convinced she would jump right out of her chair and cook us a plate!

Rest easy gram

Dale Shaughnessy: I couldn't have said this any better, I'm blessed with all of the great memories we've shared with gram and I'm so glad we got to enjoy the time together over the holidays. I love you grandma and hope all of the family in Georgia stays strong in this time. Love you all!
