“ Great people such as your mother are an inspiration to everyone around them. Your mother will continue to be an inspiration for you all, even though she has passed. She will live on in your memories and thoughts. There is many of us who wish we could have met her, although I never got the opportunity, I can't help but smile on the inside when I think about the legacy she is leaving behind. She taught a lot to her children and her children's children. Think about all the generations that have been and will be blessed by the life she lived... in remembrance of her bonds with you all, please accept my deepest condolences for your loss.
