“ I met Gene in Atlanta in 1976 when I joined the Census Bureau where he was already working. We became good friends and worked together for 15 years. Although I transferred to another Census office, we stayed in contact and occasionally saw each other over the years and even after retirement. He was always a pleasure to be around and interesting to talk to. I will always remember him.

“ I would like to first say my sympathies to the Wallace family, Gene was a very nice person.
I had the pleasure of working with him he trained me at New London driving school.
Gene and I always had good laughs about students and their driving.
I would joke with him often.
Gene always seemed to enjoy driving and testing st New London.
Some of us attended his wife’s service and I hate that we could not be in attendance for him.
He will be missed.
