“ To the family of Gail: Gail was indeed an angel. She was very special to so many people at Sweetwater. We could always count on Gail. We will miss Gail, but God knew how much she could bear. God makes no mistakes. We loved Gail, but God loves her best. His word is so true: "Weeping my endureth for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." Family, your joy will be restored-just put your trust in Him. Remember the words in the book of John "Let not your heart be troubled." God has gone to prepare a place for all of us because in His house there are indeed many mansions.

Gail, you will be loved and missed.
