“ Dear George,

Today, I officially have no choice but to say my goodbyes, as this marks the final chapter of your journey. It's been a little over a week, and still, I find it hard to accept that you're really gone. But rather than be forced into this acceptance by your passing, I'll embrace it, knowing you're now with someone who can love you even more deeply than I ever could.

Please continue to watch over me and all those who loved you. I know that will come naturally for you. George Michael Austin, you were an incredible man and an even more extraordinary son, brother, cousin, and friend. I love you, and I miss you dearly, but until we meet again, I'll keep our memories close to my heart.

Forever yours,

“ Dear George,

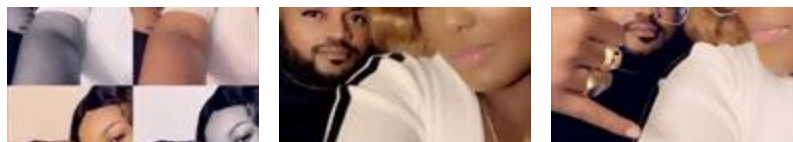

I never thought I'd be writing these words. Never in my wildest dreams did I imagine a world without you by my side, because for us, it was always "12/29 forever." That's how it was supposed to be. I can barely put pen to paper, but it's starting to sink in, and yet, somehow, it still feels impossible. You promised we'd always be there for each other, and I know you're a man of your word, so I know, deep down, you're still with me. Even if I can't see you, I feel you.

Almost twenty years—nearly two decades of friendship that was more like family. You shaped me in ways I could never have imagined, molded me with your wisdom, your honesty, and, most of all, your boundless love. You taught me how to be brave, how to laugh in the hardest times, and how to live with my whole heart. I wouldn't be who I am without you.

I could write forever and still barely scratch the surface of the memories we share. From quiet talks to uncontrollable laughter, from the silly little things to the profound moments of truth, each memory is a treasure. But one of the memories I'll hold closest is hearing you sing to me. Your voice, your spirit, filled the room and wrapped around my heart like a warm embrace. Those moments are etched into my soul, and whenever I think of them, it's like you're here with me again.

You will forever be my precious gift, George. I am so grateful for the time we shared, for the love you gave, for the light you brought into my life. I know we'll never be truly apart, but God, how I'll miss you. I love you, now and forever. Thank you for everything.

Yours always,

“ God allowed me time with you! Im so blessed to have spent the years we did together! Thank you for instilling great things in our babies Myianna and Makariya. You were the absolute best when it came to raising them! You always said you thank God for us and we were the best gifts but now were here and it's definitely the other way around. You were a great man, a King in my book and you definitely held yourself to high standard! You will always be apart of me! We are family! We love you and you will definitely be missed!

Love,
