“ Just when life starts looking promising you are thrown another curve ball. I hope you find strength and love from the people that surround you. One thing is for sure, you have so much love circling you during this time of loss and I hope that gives you the strength to wake up with a smile tomorrow.

“ So very sorry to hear about the passing of Hugh. Hugh was a classmate of mine at LHS. We lost touch after high school but random chance brought us back together through some volleyball pick up games played at an apartment complex where I lived during the better part of the early to mid 90's. He always had a quick wit about him and had a great sense of humor. May he rest in peace.

“ Where does a man begin to tell the story of such a great friend that he has lost? Our story begins in Athens where we quickly became good friends. I come from a small town where friends are people that you have known forever and grew up with, but Hugh was able to bypass all my previous criteria. I figured out real quick that he had what it took to enter my circle of lifelong buddies. We were inseparable for most of our college years. We met each others families and stayed at each others homes. Even after college, we continued to stay in touch. I went back to racing motorcycles and Hugh followed suit. He loved racing and our team loved having him travel with us. Hugh was very much in his element when he was on his motorcycle. I like to think that some of his happiest moments in life, I witnessed. And then it happened.....Life.....careers, wife, kids and next thing I know we are separated. I thought about my friend alot and often wondered if he thought about me. Evidently he did, because not long ago we reconnected after 14 years of being apart. It was a wonderful day when he came to visit and we spent all night talking about all that we had missed in each others lives. I like to think that I understand Hugh more than most people and that is why our friendship stood the test of time. I will miss him but I won't be sad . I will honor my friend by celebrating his life and telling his story as I lived it. Rest in peace my brother.

Well Said Stevie, When you guys were together there was only Fun & Friendship!!!

Kevin Sumlin - February 10, 2017 at 09:08 PM

You said it Stevie you don't know how hard it was to get him to come see you but I finally got him to go. He lived you and racing and I thank you for understanding and being there for him.
