“ I worked with Iris when I lived in Atlanta. I moved to Chicago in 2014 and kept in touch thru Facebook. She was 6 months younger than me in age but 20 yrs younger in spirit. She was a breath of fresh air in Technology world. We sat literally 6 inches from each other at work at never had an issue. Then we got to share an office and that was even better especially during conference calls. What fun we had...she wasn't tall but had a big personality. Now it has been almost a year, I still miss her.

“ Iris was such a wonderful soul, I was blessed to get her sweet little babies all pretty. I will deeply miss her and her fur kids with all my heart. As I have missed her deeply, I am glad the pain has now eased. I hope that her babies find loving new homes and have half the life that she always wanted for them.i love you and have missed you forever already, sleep well my friend.
Love always,
Kristy

“ To such a sweet and kind hearted person. The first time we worked together over ten years ago we quickly became friends that occasionally worked together. Once we became co workers our friendship grew stronger as we shared stories and discussed each other’s personal issues and situations, something I always enjoyed. We certainly made a good team together and I surely miss you.

Our thoughts and prayers are with your family.

“ To a dear friend and confidant. Although we never met in person we spoke often and I can honestly say it was a true privilege getting to know you and working alongside you. Your love of small dogs, English beer, Doctor Who and Game of Thrones was unbounded and I'll deeply miss our conversations on all of those. I wish i could be there to show my respects in person. My heart goes out to your family, who remain in my thoughts and prayers at this the saddest of times.

“ Iris used to work with my husband and I had the absolute pleasure in meeting her through him. She was such a warm and caring person who made me feel welcome from the first moment I met her. The world should have more people like her.

My deepest condolences to the family. I hope her life shines on through you.

“ Iris will be missed by her family and her many friends who loved her. I hope I was included on her list of friends, as she is on mine. I wish I could give her daughters a hug, but want them to know they are in my prayers as they travel this terrible road of loss... Rest in peace my friend. Your pain is gone. Mary Watts
