

Ivy Chevannes

May 12, 1944 - November 16, 2023

Ivy Chevannes was born Ivy Mae Jaggoo-Singh on May 12, 1944, in Clarendon Jamaica, in a town called Hayes Corn Piece where she attended Hayes Primary school. For the early part of her adult life, she was a stay-at-home mom. After the birth of her son Matthew, she started to work at Sangster's Book store in downtown Kingston. It was there that she met her lifelong friend Dion Rose. She later moved to the location Uptown. In Connecticut following her migration to the U.S., she worked at J&J Newberries department store in Hartford, CT. Following her move to Florida, she began her career at Walmart, relocating to a Walmart in Loganville, Georgia only a few years later, and retiring in 2015. She and her husband, Paul "Pops" Chevannes, were together since 1962 (over 60 years). She has been known by a few names: Miss Ivy, Miss Chevannuu (for those who could not say Chevannes); Aunt Ivy, but to most people, she was "Moms." She is preceded in death by her parents Lily and William, her siblings Olive, Daphne, Ralph, Raphael, Marilyn, Suzette and her daughter Annie Warburton. She is survived by her husband Paul (Pops); her siblings Audrey, Claudette, Jean and Yvonne; her sons Desmond (Allison), Devon (Comfort), and Matthew (Caryl), and "all her children dem;" 32 nieces and nephews, her granddaughters Naomi, Melanie, Debra, Elexus (Lexie) and Kaila (KayKay); her great-grandchildren Kyler, Kylie, Micah, and Amari.

Moms was a mother figure to all who came to her house with her hospitality and love of cooking drew people in and made them want to gather in her presence. When living in Jamaica she would cook a lot of food, enough to feed her family and more for anyone who would stop by; as she would say, if “someone drop in”. Moms had a motto, “If you consider them a friend, they are always welcome,” and so was the case when it came to our friends. Because of this, our home was the known hangout spot. When we migrated to the U.S., that practice never stopped, and in Connecticut in 1987, Ivy and Paul purchased a home that became the hangout spot part II. In many cases, families and friends would gather in our home following their own Christmas/holiday dinners simply to experience the welcoming embrace and warmth her home provided. Moms especially loved Christmas as this was the time, “all of her children dem would come home.” At church services for CBC and Gracepointe she loved praise and worship. Two of her favorite songs were “These are the Days of Elijah” by Judy Jacobs and “Donnie McClurkin Caribbean medley.” Her hobbies included gardening, cooking, and entertaining any and everyone that came to her house.

Ivy was a dear and trusted friend...she loved her Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ deeply and shared that love with her family and friends. She had a very kind, generous spirit. I will miss our conversations and hearing her say, 'eh baby?' I am comforted with knowing she is at rest and we will meet again! ❤️

To Mr Paul, her children and other family and friends, be encouraged! Weeping only lasts for a night, joy will come in the morning!

To Mums: You will be truly missed. When we speak of you, we will speak not with tears, for thoughts of you should not be sad. Let the memories we shared with you give us comfort and all our lives have been rich because of you. You were there to love us, guide us and feed us. Love you always Nique.

“ You will always be deeply loved and missed Aunt Ivy! I have so many memories of you when we lived in Jamaica, Connecticut and Florida, too many to list here. But most special to me, is our time at church at CBC. Oftentimes we sat next to each other and from listening to you recite the Lord’s Prayer I was able to learn it. I have many, many memories of Christmas gatherings, summer parties, birthday parties, and family weekends together.

“ To: The Chevannes Family
Not everyone gets to say that they had the world's Best mother and wife.
But I know that your mother and wife was one of the Best.
Sorry for the loss of your confidant, best friend, your go-to and your life coach.
Because I think of myself as a friend, I choose to laugh when you all laugh and mourn when you all mourn.
May God be kind to you all during this difficult time.
Thinking of you all with love at this sad time.

How fitting that the photo of Aunt Ivy shows her with a Christmas gift! This was her gift to our family growing up, being the Santa on Christmas morning and making sure everyone had something under the tree. The memories you created with us are so precious and will never be forgotten. We love you Aunt Ivy. You made our lives so wonderful.

Auntie 💕 sooooo many memories, too numerous to list. Thinking back to my first memories of Auntie, when I was a young child, centers around a warm, welcoming, joyful home full of people and big pots of stew peas and various curried dishes and Roti 😊. From Jamaica to the USA, her home was for sure " party central " and endless food !!! She created an atmosphere of warmth, encouragement, laughter and " NUFF " memories that our entire Family and whoever came to her home, will forever cherish. Even in the midst of not feeling well she always wanted to know how everyone else was doing 💕 We are thankful to the Almighty for allowing her to grace ALL our lives for so many years.

All your hard work is done Aunt Ivy, rest in peace thou good and faithful servant.

Till we meet on the other side... 🙏💕🙏

I didn't have the "years of experience " like many others had growing up around Aunt Ivy. However, Carol and Phillip have told me of the wonderful times they had, from childhood through adulthood, around Aunt Ivy sharing in festivities and various family gatherings. Her home has always been the center of celebration for friends and family. Finally in 2015 our family had the pleasure of spending Christmas with the Aunt Ivy and experiencing first hand the fun so many have spoken about.

Thank you Aunt Ivy for teaching the true meaning of family.
