“Poppy was such a special grandfather to have, he always brought me joy when seeing him, he and I were close together since I was very young. I always looked up to him, he inspired me in many ways. Many things about him I admire, he was funny, loved his jokes; he was wise, gave me advise on life during conversations; he was caring to me and all the other family members. He also had a strong spirit and worked to overcome challenges, health issues as one example, I'm thankful we were able to have him here with us as long as we did, as there were times years ago I thought he may not live very long. Many great memories of him, including playing music with each other on guitar, including some songs he wrote; going to places wich each other; seeing some movies we liked, including some Clint Eastwood films; and listening to stories of his childhood, family, the old days, and many funny stories as well. I'm sure I will have many great stories myself to tell through life of everything I will remember about Poppy. Thankful to have had him in my life, and will always remember him. R.I.P. Poppy.

“Poppy was an extraordinary grandfather to me and many others. Poppy always knew how to crack a hilarious clever joke. I will always remember the memories I have of playing card games with him. His amusing stories about ‘back in the day’ will always stick with me. Poppy’s contagious smile and kind heart will never be forgotten.”

“Poppy was so kind and funny, he could make a joke out of anything and always knew how to cheer people up. I am heartbroken over his passing. Poppy was an amazing grandfather and I will never forget all the fun times we had. I will never forget the times we played Slap Face and Aggravation at the kitchen table. I will always love Poppy and I will keep him in my heart forever. The laughs we shared will always be my treasure.”

“ It is my honor to say John Wallace was my father in law. I was blessed with a wonderful father for my childhood until he passed away when I was 17 and I received another blessing having Poppy for my adulthood. Poppy filled a part of my heart that was broken with his unconditional love. He loved me like his own daughter and I loved him with all my heart and soul. I will always remember his stories, his jokes, his quick wit, and his charm. He was a devoted husband who adored Grandy, which was so beautiful to witness. I am so thankful for the quality of love and life he gave my husband. I am thankful for the love and memories he gave my child. His legacy will continue throughout our family and we will cherish our memories and love for him always. Thank you Michael for sharing your father with me and loving our son the way your father loved you. You had the best of the best.

“ I'm heartbroken over the loss of my poppy. He is extremely special to me. I adore him. Imagine the perfect grandfather, he was it. He was always very playful with the grandchildren when he was young and able, teaching card tricks and singing silly songs, taking us out for treats. As a child, and as an adult, getting to see him was a treat. I never had to fake delight or a smile upon getting to see my poppy. He was a tough old man, and survived many physical hardships with out letting it get him down. I was always impressed by his positive attitude. Even if he was in pain he'd try to smile and make light of it, and try not to show that he was bothered. my children adored him and he adored them. His stories of "the old days" were never boring. Even in his recent declined state, he was quick witted, making jokes and making quick 'comebacks'. Any time I ever heard him speak about my Grandy he sounded like a newly wed in love. He'd act jealous to flatter her, He would flirt with her and tease her, One time pretended like he forgot to help with dishes when she asked...and say to me that "she's cute when she's mad" as if it was all planned that way; with a child like mischievousness that defined his humor. He never told a joke, or cracked a sly comment, that I didn't genuinely think was funny. In any serious situation, he was the comic relief. He'd poke fun at his own age and pretend not to remember you, then he'd chuckle because he he didn't really forget. He genuinely loved his family. I already miss him more than I've ever missed anybody. I'll always love and adore my poppy.

“ My father loved me. I loved my father. We were also best friends. He taught me about life and love. I will always remember him as being caring, wise and fun. He made me laugh every single time we spent together. He taught me how to get up when down, how to keep what you love close, and what matters most. He made me into the man I am. He adored my mother and put an emphasis on family. I have never respected or loved a man more. I have never lost someone as close and as dear to my heart as this man. My mentor, my guide, my hero, my friend and my father. I was blessed to have you. I was proud of you. I will forever love & care for our family that you loved and cared for all these years. I will miss you until I die & I will always honor your life, cherish your memory and the times we've had. You were the best of the best. A truth amongst doubt, a light in the dark and an unconditional, undying love that healed, supported and made me. You were mine and I lost you... but I gained more than I could ever lose with you. Thank you, Pops. You are my love. . You live inside my heart and soul and will forever be safe there.

“ After not seeing him for many years, I saw Uncle Larry at a family event, and he handed me a gift. It was a book, and I remember thinking what a kind gesture it was. An unexpected gift is always nice. A book, even better! When I opened the book there was a message inside. It said To James, From Larry and below that, a brief yet tremendously moving personal note. It was one of the most thoughtful gifts I have ever received and without question the most valued book on my bookshelf.

Uncle Larry, for a very long time now, has been the embodiment of the kind of man I hope to be. The kind of man I hope my son will grow up to be. The kind of man that all men should strive to be.

“ *I will miss his jovial demeanor. He always knew how to make me laugh!
He was a wonderful and loving father to me and my siblings. He was also a fun and loving grandfather to my children and also a loving Great-grandfather to their children.
We all loved him very much.
He was a devoted and caring husband to my mother and she took very good care of him throughout their marriage, until the day he passed.
He will be greatly missed and fondly remembered. Hopefully we will all be reunited in Heaven. What a joyous day that will be!*
