“ Johnathan brought joy to my brother when Davis married Linda. Davis treasured the opportunity to be second father figure to Johnathan. Jonathan connected with our family as a child growing up and with my kids all around his age. They played together, got into mischief together and my son and Johnathan even hung out on occasions during their younger years. As Johnathan grew into a man and sought out his own life, our lives when separate ways. We would connect by phone on rare occasions, run into each other a time or two out in the world and kept up with him via my brother Davis Stevenson. My heart breaks as I had no idea his journey was overshadowed by depression. I am certain his faith foundation grants him a seat at the heavenly table with my folks who loved him as a grandson.
