“ We always think there will be more time to get together, to be neighborly, to share our lives, but it really isn't up to us to decide how much time we have. We are so glad that we had an opportunity to know Randy and to find that we had so much in common, and certainly wish that we could've known him better. But, we see him in his boys and in his grandsons and in the loving eyes of his wife, and those things will go on and on. We know how much he will be missed and we celebrate the time he shared with us all, knowing that his real life has only just begun. God bless.
