“ The passing of Mrs. Miller gives me both sadness and joy. Sadness that this world has lost such a special and beautiful lady and friend, but joy in knowing her long suffering is over and she will now be reunited with her Husband Clayton, and all who have gone before her.

My childhood memories of growing up next to the Millers are full of happiness and love for who I thought of as Family. I'll never forget the kind things Mozelle would do for me and my Daughter when she or I would visit. There was always an ice cream sandwich for us in the summer, and at Christmas, we would always exchange small but very meaningful and thoughtful gifts.

She was the best housekeeper in the world, her kitchen was as beautiful as it was functional, and functional it was. She loved to cook and it showed.

I say all of this because it seems the passing of her generation takes with it a special meaning of love and simplicity that the world may never see again.

Until we're neighbors again, leave a light on for me and I'll see you soon.

Love,
