“ Love is a force that doesn't simply vanish when someone is no longer part of your life. It lingers, not as a chain that binds you to the past, but as a quiet reminder of the connection you once held. Even when a relationship ends or life separates you from someone you love, that love doesn't cease to exist. Instead, it transforms—becoming softer, more reflective, and deeply intertwined with who you are. It becomes part of your story, shaping the person you continue to become.

One of the hardest truths to accept is that love doesn't just disappear when someone is no longer physically present, whether through distance, time, or loss. That love often finds its way into quiet moments, resurfacing unexpectedly in memories or emotions. It doesn't mean you're holding on too tightly—it means that the bond you shared was real, meaningful, and impactful. Love, even when it evolves, has a way of leaving its mark.

Healing from a past love or the loss of someone dear isn't about trying to erase what was. Instead, it's about learning to carry that love in a new way. It's about honoring the impact they had on your life while finding peace in the present. To deny that love or try to bury it completely is to deny a part of yourself. The love you shared isn't wasted—it's a reminder of your capacity to care deeply and connect meaningfully, and it has shaped your heart in profound ways.

Over time, the intensity of that love may fade, not because it wasn't real, but because you've learned to carry it differently. It becomes less of a weight and more of a quiet strength, a reflection of your journey and growth. You'll begin to see it not as something holding you back, but as something that enriches your understanding of love, life, and yourself. Healing doesn't mean forgetting—it means finding a way to move forward while holding onto the lessons and memories with grace.

If you're struggling to let go of a past love or to accept the loss of someone dear, know this: it's okay to feel “ Dearest Michael, Today makes 13 years ago that you walked into my life and changed me in away I never thought existed. I never thought "Love at first Sight" existed. I found out that day it did and my heart hasn't been the same since. Then my heart broke on different occasions, but the worst day was the day you left this world. You took a VERY huge part of me with you. I've not been the same since. I don't look at things the same at all, and I can't even think of ever loving anyone again. I try to think I might could, but when I really sit down and try to think of how it might could be a long the way I realize right then no I won't never be able to share that part of me again. A promise is just that, and the promise I made to you long ago still stands to this day. Gosh, there is never day I don't think of you, and whisper your name and tell you how much I really miss you. There was a reason for our meeting on this date so long ago and I am not sure I will ever totally understand it, but I do know that it showed me what total true love was for a person. I had only felt like that one other time in my life and that ended in a horrible way as well. Actually the same exact way you ended it. I try not to dwell on that, and I really try not to question that either. I would give anything to walk outside right now and find you standing in the road. I would grab you and never let you go. You were very loved and now you are very missed. Love you Baby...

“ Dearest Michael, I was just sitting here and you crossed my mind. I am still having to wait another 13 days before having my heart cath done. I hope by them putting it off like they have that stints will do the job if needed. If not and the areas are blocked off I will have to have open heart surgery. That scares me to death to even think of that. I sure wish you were around to tell me I am over thinking it and that everything will be fine and that I will just be in and out. I pray that is what is said. Love you Sweetheart. R.I.P. my love... Stay close in my heart and mind.

“ Dearest Michael, I just had to talk to you before going to sleep tonight. I know it maybe crazy, but any time I had something I was scared about or upset I could always talk to you and I would feel comfort. Yesterday I went to the Heart/Vascular office to have my nuclear stress test and they found something wrong with my heart. I go back on Friday for 2 more test. I am scared to death. I've had so much to go wrong since September and this just adds to that disillusion. Finding out I was a diabetic was bad enough to now finding out there are issues with my heart. As they told me they go hand in hand. I just wish you were here so I could listen to your comforting words and telling me not to over think it like I know I am doing, but at the same time how can I not? I need your spirit with me now more than ever. I don't have anyone to turn to that I can just ask for a hug or anything else. It's like if it was anyone of them they would want me to comfort them. but nobody is ever here for me. Gosh, how I miss you... I am not wanting a pity party, I just need more strength than I have myself right now. I love you... I miss you and you are in my thoughts every single day. All day every day your thought of and still loved by me. With all my love for you forever,

There has been so much I needed you to talk to and I am just left with so much built up inside of me that wants to be said to you... The day I get to see you again in Heaven be prepared to have a very long conversation. I can promise you it will be hours and hours of talk if it can happen in Heaven. I really don't understand why people say time heals for me it hasn't. No goodbyes, or any other knowledge of you leaving us al behind and my heart and my mind can not comprehend it all. Death is so final, and you left when there were people out there that would have been there for you. I love you and always have and always will. You will always be in my heart, and I love when your spirit comes to visit. I always know its you. Rest in Peace my Love....

“ *Dearest Michael,
I have been thinking about you a lot lately. It lightens my heart for awhile to remember the times we laughed together and had long personal conversations. Then earlier I was in Midtown and was fixing to open the door at Chic~Fil~A and a guy that could have passed for your twin with those piercing eyes just like yours runs to grab the door to open it for me. I told him Thank You and walked on in. I was stunned and shaken all at the same time. Once getting home I just sat and cried. Like I told my daughter there are times that I have to come here to read your obituary to convince myself you are really gone and won't be coming to knock on my door or any other door. You were loved by a lot of people even though you always thought you weren't. I miss you more every day, and time doesn't seem to ease the pain of you being gone. People that say that must have never really cared for the person. True Love never dies... You are the reason I know there is real unconditional love to be found. Maybe its not for us to keep each and every time, but once that type of love is in your heart it never goes away. It is the largest part of your inner self. I just had to chat with you before going to sleep. I love it when you visit me in my dreams. Love you forever and a day...
Rest in Peace my Love...*

I've had you on my mind all day long. Every song that I heard was like you were playing them for me to hear. So much has went on with me lately till I don't know which way to turn half the time. I feel like you were right beside me during the whole time I was sick. I was the only one that realized just how close to death I was. Nobody else including 2 doctors didn't want to help me. Thankfully though my decision to call on the specialist was the right call. I am doing a whole lot better now, but I still run out of energy fast. I love you and I miss you something terrible. The years only seem to deepen the memories of you and show me that what I felt for you was the greatest type of love. It's almost Christmas and I can already see I wish I was just off some place all alone and not having to deal with the family thing. I don't know what her problem is every Christmas? Its just been going on entirely to many years. I won't go into detail, but I know you know what I am talking about. Rest in Peace my Love... hugs ooo and kisses xxx to you...*

Here it is 12 years from the day I met you... From the day you swept me away heart and soul. I never ever believed in Love at First Sight, but when my eyes met your eyes all of that changed. From that moment on you have been in my heart, soul and mind. I know you are no longer with us on this earth, but I know that you are in my heart and soul and your spirit is with me each and every day and there is times you bring that spirit to me in ways to let me know you are with me. I miss you each and every single day that I live. I am miserable Michael, I haven't been happy in so long till I have forgot what that word really means. Your face, your voice, or anything to do with you made me light up like a Christmas tree and I seen it in you with me also. So did others. I try to understand what you were going through, but the one thing you forgot was I would have went to the end of the world with you and stayed by your side regardless to what was going on. I would have never took you for what you had or didn't have. I could have cared less if you had a million dollars or only had enough to buy a one piece of bubble gum. I loved you and only you... I still love you... I will love you to the day I die.... Rest in Peace my Love... Happy 12 years I celebrate in my heart and your gracious memories... Love You Forever and and day...

“ Dearest Michael, I have been thinking a lot about you recently... I miss you so much. I miss your sweet voice and your laughs and all the good advice when I needed it. I always felt so good after our chats.

Here it is Summer time the time of the year when I met you and it being a month from being 12 years. Oh how I have so much I would love to talk to you about... You would be stunned on how much stuff has changed since 2008 in this world we live in. I know you are looking down from Heaven and seeing all the ciaos going on. All though the world is not complete because it is missing one very important person and that person is "YOU"... I will go now for it is time to go dream and hope you are in it. I really do miss you and I will always love you forever and a day... R.I.P. My Love...

“ Dearest Michael, Hello I have had you on my mind a great deal lately. I miss you more and more. They say time heals, but I am so sorry it really don't heal a broken person. I am truly broken from your death. I have changed so much in the past 7 1/2 years. When you don't carry your whole heart any more it makes a different person out of you. What I would give to hug you once more, talk to you once or just be able to look into your eyes and tell you just what you mean to me just one more time. There were never any goodbyes said and I know you live within me each and every day, but it is just your soul and memory... I loved you then Michael and I still love you today. Rest in Peace my Love...

“ Dearest Michael, I have had you on my mind this entire day and into the evening. I just wanted to drop you a line before laying down. I have felt you around me so much today. This hasn't been the best of days for me and I feel you know why. Gosh, how I miss you. I sure could use one of your good talks about now. Lord I miss you so, so much. It is so hard sometimes to even want to face the day knowing you are not no longer in this world. I just do know I firmly believe in Spirit and you are around me quite a bit. I am so thankful for that. I just wish I could hold you when I need that one certain touch... I love you still with all my heart....

“ Dearest Michael, I have had you on my mind the past couple of days. Today has really been difficult in knowing that this was the date that I last seen you 10 years ago. I never in a million years thought that would be the last time I would see you, and that in just a little over 2 years later you would be gone from this world entirely. Oh, how my heart hurts. I am angry with myself for not just telling you that day that we should have just left together and never looked back. Maybe then you would still be here today to enjoy your grandchildren and mine as well. I'm having trouble writing this as tears run down my cheek. I feel like I understand why we met. I needed to learn what true whole heartily love really was and I found that in you at first sight. I had never believed in that either for that matter. You will always be in my heart and soul till the day I take my last breath. I loved you then Michael and I still love you today. The love I hold in my heart for you will be within me for all the days of my life... Love and Kisses.... R.I.P. My Love.

“ Dearest Michael, I had you on my mind and I could not go to sleep until I wrote to you. I did have my eye surgery weeks ago and I done great! I had NO pain at all. I felt like you were right there beside me the entire time. I even heard a song that reminds me of you on the way to the surgery that morning. I had not heard that song on the radio in the longest time and then all of a sudden out of the blue there it was. I just smiled and knew then everything was going to be OK... I miss you every single day. What I would give to see you again and hold you and never let you go. I have a lot of regrets in my life, but you were not one of them. The only regret I have on that is I backed away when I shouldn't have. I will love you forever and a day!! R.I.P. my love.... xoxo

“ Dearest Michael, Sorry I didn't get here on Christmas. It was a crazy time. Children running everywhere driving me insane. I know one day I will miss those annoying times. I have been thinking about you a lot lately. I have to have eye surgery this coming up Tuesday in Marietta and my stomach is knotting up more and more each day as it comes closer. I know if you were here you would be a huge supporter and telling me not to worry about it that all would go good. It is still scary though. I just feel all alone and that makes things feel that much deeper. I hope you had a Wonderful Christmas in Heaven celebrating Jesus' birthday with him first hand. What a joy that would be. It don't take away the pain of you being gone from this world though. Tears still flow when thinking about you. Just needed to chat for a moment. Loved you then and I still love you today...

“ Dearest Michael, I had you on my mind tonight and thought I would drop in to leave you a little message. Thanksgiving has come and went and now heading into the Christmas season... This year sure has flown by, but it's not the same without know you were just a phone call away. I know ever since you left us here on this earth there have been numerous times I needed your advice or your fine way of telling me how to handle things and you are not no longer that phone call away. This year that has happened many times and all I could do was just stop and cry and scream and yell. You just don't know how much you were loved and by a lot more than you ever thought. It crosses my mind on all the things you are missing out on. My birthday is coming up and I will never forget what you told me that first birthday I had after meeting you... You thought you had one more day. I smile when I think of that comment. I will go now and try to rest. R.I.P. my Love..... Love you forever....

He is smart,funny, brave and so much more and I know he got a lot of those qualities from you. He missed you so much and has had a hard time dealing with the loss. Chris is a wonderful father - you would be so proud! He wishes you were here to help him with advise on how to raise a teen. The kids are so big , Devon is 14 now , next year he will be driving. Lilly is 10 and beautiful and she has yours and Chris' personality ! Then there is Ethan he is all boy and a mess I tell ya! He just turned 6 on 9/30. We found out we were pregnant on the February after you past. Devon changed his middle name to Michael when Chris adopted him and Ethans middle name is also Michael. We try to keep your memory alive and keep your pictures around for the kids to know you. Please know you are missed and are and was loved! - your Daughter in Law

I have had such a bad day... You kept coming to my mind. Gosh how I miss you so. There are songs I hear that reminds me so much of you... One of the is "How Long Will I Love You".... Oh as long as there is breath in me I will. We all make mistakes, and none of us is perfect, but I sure do wish you had of reached out for me before you took yourself out of our big ole world. I know that nothing I can say or do will bring you back, but the only way I would even consider bringing you back is that you would be the person you were when we first met. I am just so sorry that last "thing" took you for all of your worth and didn't care what happened to you. I cared, maybe to much. My heart will forever be committed to the promise I made to you all those many years ago even though I am as miserable as a person can be living in this situation. I pray that God will see fit for me to one day be out from under this situation. I miss you Darling. I will forever love you and you will forever be in my thoughts... My heart breaks over and over again when I think of you... So much I need to say to you and talk to you about. You were such a force of nurture to me and when I knew I was in love with you there was no controlling my feelings. They were so very true and if you could have just held on a little longer you would have known that. I had every intention in the world of telling you. Life is short as it is, and I am so deeply hurt you felt you had to shorten yours even more.
