“ Nancy and I met at The Compassionate Friends through the loss of our children. We became close friends and would always cling and hold onto each other because the pain of losing our children even after 14 years was too great. I will miss her greatly. Her laugh. Her hugs. Her crazy personality that warmed my heart. Bless you my dear friend, your prayer has been answered. I will always love you and blessed be the day when we are once again reunited as friends with our children at our sides. I love you girl!###imported-begin###Judy Quillen###imported-end###

“ I was so looking forward to you coming to stay a couple weeks with me and so were the kids, you are supposed to be here at my house right now. It just doesnt seem real, I see your name on this page so I know it is but I sure would love to hear you say quit that biscuit eater straighten up. I know you have your wings now and that you are with G and that you are smiling from ear to ear. But that selfish part of me wants you here. So I expect to see a new butterfly fluttering around my butterfly flower and I know it will be the prettiest butterfly i will ever see. And I will still smile everytime someone tells me I am like you, cause I take that as a compliment, you are one tough cookie and I still catch myself repeating to my kids the things you taught me. I love you Nancy P. Fox and I will do my very best to rememebr everything you taught me and to honor the promises I made.

P.S. give G a big lick on his cheek from me.##imported-begin##Anita (Biscuit Eater)##imported-end##
