“ Daddy, Your son is all grown up now. I cant stop thinking of you. You are always on my mind 24/7. I'm literally crying right now typing this to you. I just miss you sooo much and it hurts every time I think of you. I just want to see you one more time, just one more time. I feel an empty space in me every morning I wake up, some days i can't even think straight, my heart and mind just cant move past you. I know i was only 5 when you passed away but I still hold many vivid memories of you. Hopefully I will be eligible to see you on that faithful morning. I Miss You So Much Daddy!!! Please send your angels to watch over me, mommy, Ture, Ate, Dumbari, and Precious.

Your Son,
Barinaale Kara

“ Dear Brother Kara,

The night before you died, we conversed briefly-----this phone call is very precious to me. Similarly, the "chill out time with you, Sister, and the kids/family" via a traditional Nigerian dinner and Nollywood movie is quite special.....when I reflect on these afternoon/evening moments in August 2009, there was so much that you shared with me then that has strengthen me now. I love and miss your physical presence Brother Kara. I promise to be there for Sister during this very difficult time. LV,##imported-begin##Portia C. Allen##imported-end##
