He served His country and his family. He took us in like we were his own. He would drop everything he was doing to help me out. He taught things like how to change my own oil and brakes so I won't have to rely on others to do it for me and I will pass it on to my kids. I wish I could have spent more time with him. I can tell he really cared about what I was doing because all his co workers knew about it. Here's to you John my step dady father the man who raised me.

Daniel Mills - May 11, 2015 at 07:35 AM

He was Daddy to so many. Always smiling, always willing to help, always picking on my kids, and loving them like they were his own. One thing, above all else, he always showed me what love looked like. He took the time to teach, the time to listen, and the time to love. I love his laugh, his crushing bear hugs, and how his eyes sparkled when he smiled. He is someone that I will always remember as my second Daddy. I loved him as he loved me, with out fear, judgement, or expectations. He loved us because he had love to give and because he could. His heart lives in each life he touched. His heart lives in me, because I remember. I will never forget.
