“ When John Kennedy's first wife passed away, he knew he needed a partner to continue in the ministry. He got a great one in Rillie Mae. She was a people person and served Scotland well. I remember our family visiting for a holiday (vacation) and it was fun. On one night, I cooked a curry for us all and Rillie ate every bite. Great time.

“ Our memories are how gracious Rillie Mae was when we visited her and John in Limerick, Ireland and in Tucker, GA. She was a gracious hostess. It was a delight to visit with them discussing the goodness of our God. They loved the LORD, and so do we. That is why we enjoyed the time together. Now she sees Him face to face and can revel at being made whole in Christ. May God comfort you with the joy that she now delights in.
