“ I've known Robert for a number of years, from the end of the last century. I have to admit that he was probably one of the greatest advocates for Jesus with whom I consider to be a good friend. He was an acquired taste to get to know, to be sure. He was loud, straight forward and always right :-) I taught a Sunday School class once and can still remember him always raising his right hand with two fingers extended to ask a question or make a comment about scripture. He always had something to say about the Word and he was almost always spot on about what he said. I learned a lot listening to him too. He was a gentle giant in my mind. Always willing to help out anyone to do anything. He was truly born again and a great advocate that was left behind until he was called home. I am truly sorry that my friend is gone and I cannot discuss scripture with him anymore. Cannot wait until I see him again. A Brother in Christ, Fred

“ He was the best anyone could ever ask for: Best Uncle, Husband, Father, Grandfather, Friend, etc. He was just the absolute best. I was blessed to have him as my Uncle for almost 30 yrs. He loved big and loud, you couldn't miss it. I'm really going to miss those big bear hugs, his laughter, his jokes and so much more. Heaven gained the best Angel. Love you Uncle Robert and see you again one day

“ One time my uncle asked me if I wanted to run to Ingles to get my aunt something. That part wasn't important. It was important he picked me. He was scary at 14. I think us kids felt like we would never be good enough and we felt sorry for ourselves. It was late and he parked far from the front though no one was there. I def thought something of it but went ahead and started to get out. But he started crying. And we sat there and I listened while he cried. I won't say what he cried about but it was honest and pure and was a reminder that my uncle fought every day for the people he loved who depended on him. And we got out and walked inside. We never talked about it again. I'm glad he picked me to ride with him. I wish we had just one more ride.
