“ Hello Scott and Geraldine. I am so sad to hear about Ronald's passing. He was an ever present and memorable part of my childhood. You all were. So many of my fondest childhood memories were born from the friendship with your family. I claimed you as my own. It didn't matter whether we were... swinging on the doors at Belks or hiding inside the "Old Lady" clothes racks.... hunting, water skiing or dirt bike riding... waiting for HOURS while "The Moms" shopped while Scott named ever transfer truck's make, model, and tag # from it's sound alone (well, maybe not the tag #, but I thought he could because he was my hero back then.)... or just fighting in the back seat with Scott while he swore off eating forever if you ever called him "Honey" again... "IT" was my favorite thing to do from age 5 to 12... as long as "IT" included you. I still laugh when I think about the look on Themerrr's face when we would come to your house and Ronald would wait till we got out of the car to come out of the house with that Hugh German Shephard dog and tell it to get Thelmerrr! I guess she was happy that she carried extra drawers in the glove box on those days! I will miss knowing his sense of humor is just a call away but I feel so much more relieved that he has been released from the debilitating effects of Alzheimer's. God bless you all. I know how hard it is to be the caretaker... how helpless you can feel.. and lonesome for someone who no longer recognizes you. I'm so sorry! Treat yourself to something special... you deserve it. Love those Grand Kids and think of us sometimes. I Love you and pray that God will continue to bless you. By the way... I remember our last conversation when you said little children can't drive themselves to church. Skylar never misses a Sunday or Wednesday service and she's a song bird the same as I was at her age. She's so proud to have a leading roll in the Easter Play. ... Now Soryan, on the other hand, well let' just say... He's convinced that God lives everywhere and the people who created video games is definite proof that fact! He's a work in progress. Pray for us as well please. With Love, Carol Brown

“ Mr.Ford will be missed by many, this morning at church, I thought "now is when Mr. Ford passes by me"...only I'll have to wait a few more years for that. What a smile, sincere joy, always a jokester, and he loved and adored his wife. We love you Mrs. Geraldine & Scott, praying God's peace and comfort in Mr. Ronalds absence. Love, Andy & Mickey Nash
