“ My dearest Spencer...

It seems like just yesterday when I met you in Mrs. Jerek's class at Annistown Elementary. My children, Amber and Rico, introduced you to me as "our new friend, Spencer". You were the cutest little jovial guy whom I took a liken to immediately. Everytime that I would walk into a room you would say out loud, "Hi Ms. Magwood!", and run to give me a big bear hug. Over the years, this became your signature 'announcement' to let everyone know that I had arrived. You will never know just how much you brighten my day everytime that I saw you Spencer. In all honestly, you made me feel like a "superstar". I remember the last time that I saw you...It was about a year ago in Walmart, you were out shopping with you stepdad. You saw me from afar in the food section, screamed out my name, and came running straight to me (as you always did) with that hig hug and infectious smile. Yes, you made me feel like that superstar all over again. I noticed that you had become a VERY handsome 'young man' almost overnight. You. I think you grew a few more inches, slimmed down, and even looked like you had a few muscles. I thought to myself, "The girls are going to be fighting over this one, because he's a keeper!". Awww, Spencer, my sweet Spencer...you will be missed and I will NEVER forget how you made me feel like a SUPERSTAR each and everytime that I saw you. I look forward to seeing you again someday when you great me with your big bear hug and make that signature announcement to our Lord and Savior that I have arrived in Heaven. Rest in peace my little angel... Mrs. Magwood###imported-begin###Mrs. Magwood###imported-end###

“ Dear Mr. and Mrs. Payton,

Spencer and I had health and gym together last year. We had a great time playing basketball together. He was a lot of fun to be around, was always happy and smiling, and had a great sense of humor. Although we weren't in class together this year, we still saw each other often in the halls, and I looked forward to his high fives. I am so lucky to have known him and will really miss him! I am very very sorry for your loss!
