“ I started working at Viasat toward the end of May 2021. Terry was the first person outside of my group to come and introduce himself and welcome me to the organization. From then on anytime I would pass him in the hallway he would greet me with a smile and a "Hey Derek, how ya doing today buddy?"

I actually felt kind of bad because I had forgotten his name at first and would just reply with "I am doing awesome buddy, thanks!". Then I asked one of the people in my group his name and I never forgot it after. It was always a pleasure to see him throughout the day. He always had a smile on his face, and generated a warm aura with his calm and cool demeanor. When I heard he passed I was honestly shocked, and somewhat sad. I did not know him very well, and had only known him for a few months, but losing someone like that hit different. He was not just a stranger. He was a kind soul with genuine positive energy. I hope that his family can rest well knowing that he is most certainly smiling down on them from Heaven and most importantly, not in anymore pain.

I will continue to keep the entire family in my prayers and will miss my daily "Hey Derek! How ya doing today?".

Rest well Terry.

“ I worked with and around Terry for several years. Though we did not work in the same department, I would see Terry several times during the day. He always greeted me with a smile and a “good morning”. Through all the years I’ve known Terry, I never saw him be anything but kind to all around him. At work, there are many opportunities to get upset and even mad from the many challenges, but Terry kept his even-keel approach, moving ahead as if there were no problems. We shared the same political views and had many lunchtime conversations of how to save the world. I always admired his open and fair assessment of the daily craziness especially when involving politics. I will miss our lunchtime conversations. Terry will be missed by all who knew him.
