“ I consider myself blessed to have had you in my life. I will always remember the young 21 year old grocery manager ready to taken on the world. You absorbed everything faster than I could teach it. You and Cory made doing time at "The 9" fun. Although I am proud of what you did with your career, I am most proud of the lives you touched as a husband and father. I will miss you and will be sure to look to heaven each time Tony Romo throws a pick and know you had something to do with it.##imported-begin##Greg Switzer##imported-end##

“ Angie, I know the funeral is taking place as I speak. Can't tell you how sorry I am that you have to go through this pain and the children later in life will feel this same pain. I had a daughter that was taken away from me in 1994 and I had another daughter was 8yrs old at the time. Its been 19yrs since my daughter's death and it hasnt gotten any easier and as the time goes by the feelings flourish even harder. So, I know this pain and anytime you would like to talk to someone who knows this pain please feel easy to send me a friend request on fb and I would gladly share my feelings with you. My sister's husband committed suicide at the age of 25yrs old and did not leave a note or anything. I know when all said and done after the funeral and you go home (the house will feel a silenceness) May God Grant you peace of mind to know we are here to support you and I love you and don't even know you. No one needs this sort of pain :(###imported-begin##Glenda Kennemore##imported-end##

“ My neighbor & I would go in Publix almost every day & still do, we would see Todd and say hi to him ask how his wife & kids was & Todd would take the time to talk for a few minutes. Don't why he did what he did only Todd & God can answer that question unless he left his family a note which I PRAY he did at least they'll know why and that is all that matters. My prayers & thoughts are with all of his family & friends. RIP in peace Todd. Diana & Dot###imported-begin##Diana Kilpatrick###imported-end##

“ Dear Angie,
We've come a long way since riding the bus together and being neighborhood neighbors... I've so enjoyed keeping up with you and your precious family. You have always been a strong beautiful woman who I've greatly admired. Days ahead will be a little tricky and confusing, my best advice is not to tackle the day, but rather the momentwords of advice someone gave me when my mom passed. "Inch by inch it's a cinch, mile by mile a trial."
I wish I could be there to give you a big giant hug today, gosh I just wish I could make this all better for you. I do know that you will get through this. It just takes time.
You are such a wonderful momma - those kids will pull you through more than anything :)
Todd was a wonderful father and husband- that was apparent from near and afar. It made me smile to see all of your sweet posts to each other. Hold on to the good memories.....
I love you and my family and I are lifting you and your entire families up in prayer. May you find the peace that passes understanding.##imported-begin##Rachel Cartwright##imported-end##
