“ It was in 1997 when I met the Griffin Boys at a Nascar Race in Bristol.

I have never met a better bunch of fellas in my life.

I was by myself but they would have no part of that.

They insisted I eat a plate and refused me going back to my camp alone.

At the time my Dad and I were not getting along and have not spoke in years.

My Dad happened to be at the track in a different campsite.

The "Boss Man" asked me. " Kentucky (my nickname), where's your Daddy?

"on the other side of the track" I replied.

He paused for a moment, looking at me he could see the pain in my eyes.

He then said, "Kentucky, why don't you adopt me?"

What a kind, compassionate gesture.

That is the kind of man the "Boss Man" was, a GREAT MAN.

I have never forgot that moment and through the years I have tried to emulate the kind of man the "Boss Man" was. It has worked for me in that I was able to reconcile with my Dad and now I am a Dad.

I always approach my relationship with my Dad and my Kids based on what I learned from the "Boss Man".

Rest easy and Thank You "Boss"
